PA NEW

Suggestion of the Motor club that plans be made for improvement of North Mercer street north of Sheridan avenue, by the city and Neshamock township is one that should get adequate consideration. This direct route to the northern city line is much needed at the present time, even though it is improved, and once it was paved, it would open the way for a large development in the area between Mercer street and Wilmington avenue, as well as providing a good highway for quick travel to the northern part of the city.

They're back through the air with the great of race up at the Harbor swimming hole. The danger is that some of them may be flying too high. Some of the more daring swimmers climb to the top of the bridge and dive off, a distance of some 100 feet to the water. The "old swimmers" hold at this point is something like ten feet deep.

What looks like a double helping of pre-digested spaghetti, deposited on the court, house steps yesterday, turned out to be a motley mass of ankle worms when investigated by the court house janitor, E. C. McCracken. The "bait" had crawled out of a crevice in the concrete steps, probably to get a line on fishermen who were going for licenses. There was enough to almost fill a quart can.

The "lunatic fringe" on Rural avenue has disappeared following several days of hard work by a wheelbarrow gang. The fringe consisted of cans, bottles and other trash which had been thrown over the hill and lodged against the wall erected by the WPA workers. Rural avenue is not only one of the best paved streets in the city, but it is an enchanting drive at any season of the year.

The public use on Logan street is a popular place these evenings after the ball games on the Boyles field playground. The water in this well is said to be the finest in the city. It will be remembered that when the well was drilled, the location was selected by an Amishman with a "peach tree" water diviner. He sure struck a good stream, but in doing so dried up a spring that flowed south of the Rural avenue bridge.

Many saw in the parade yesterday more than children and their pets. Back of it all was the natural longing of the human heart for something to love and cherish. In childhood nothing is more natural than for children to lavish their affection on dogs, cats and other animals. It is a wholesome outlet for their pent up energies. The greater the love for pets, the deeper and more lasting the affections for humans in later years.

Carl Rabushky of Wilson avenue states that in one of the meadows located across the highway from the Sylvan Heights golf course, a young deer has been seen. There are some cows in the pasture in that vicinity, and the deer has become so tame that he comes about every evening and eats with the grazing cows. At the appearance of any person the deer suddenly demurs.

...the cat will mew and dog will have his day." Shakespeare said. Well, the dog had his day in the pet parade yesterday afternoon, but it was a darn hot day. There were dozens and dozens of dogs on parade, and their tongues hung out like the straps in a street car. The cavalcade moved along quite swiftly and the little dogs had a rather tough time to keep up with their long-legged companions.

For several of the animals, the pet parade was just too much. The big dog led by Miss D. Thomas of Linton street, "sick to his stomach" and he "dropped out at Mercer and Washington streets. One of the goats decided that the march was decidedly not in his line, and so sat down stubbornly on Washington street and wouldn't move an inch. His young master had to lift him up and carry him, and it's hard to tell who turned out to be the goat.

"Hollywood" and "hollyhock" sound alike but you would have to travel to California to see the former and only up to Boyles avenue to see the latter. There is a fine

HARRISBURG, June 24.—

The long-awaited court decision expected to launch the grand jury investigation into the Earle administration was again postponed today with indications the decision might now be expected tomorrow or Monday.

Following a heated court session in which Attorney General Guy K. Bard and District Attorney Carl B. Shelley contended for the right to conduct the proposed inquiry, Presiding Judge Paul N. Schaeffer suddenly adjourned court until Monday.

JARRISBURG, June 24.

Attorney General Guy K. Bard insisted today that his right to supersede Dauphin county's district attorney in the proposed grand jury probe of the Earle administration was unconditional and not "subject to judicial review."

To District Attorney Carl B. Shelley's argument that Bard has "disqualified himself" in the case because of his participation in the Earle administration, Bard replied that he was "disqualified" only in the case of a private citizen.

FLOODS STILL HALT
ARMIES ON FRONT

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI, June 24.—

Nearly 100 Japanese sailors and marines were killed and a number wounded when their launch struck a submerged Chinese mine in the upper reaches of the Yangtze river, it was revealed today.

The launch was "blown to smithereens" by the blast, according to reports received here. The Japanese craft ran foul of the mine on Wednesday between Anking and Matung.

Halted By Floods
Meanwhile, with Japan's forces on the central front still halted by the floods, Japanese war planes and ships went into action against the Southwest Chinese port of Swatow, leading to renewed belief that a major military campaign against Canton, still farther south, may be imminent.

Squadrons of Japanese warplanes roared in from aircraft carriers and subjected Swatow, a city of more than 200,000 population, to periodic bombings. Observers expressed the opinion the air attacks were designed to clear the way for an attempt to capture Swatow preparatory to a drive on Canton.

In the Yangtze valley, flood waters, now receding, combined with stubborn Chinese resistance, still managed to hold the Japanese forces in check in their drive to capture Hankow.

Post Office At Enon Valley Is To Be Advanced

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—

The town post office at Enon Valley will be advanced to first class status effective July 1, it was stated today by post office department officials.

Increased business during 1937, resulting in post office business totaling more than $1,500 was responsible for the increase in rank.

The principal change brought about by the "promotion" will be in the status of the postmaster, since third class post office postmasters and postmistresses of higher ranks are appointed by the president.

State Commissioner
Of Insurance Speaks

"Life insurance is facing a federal investigation because it has departed too far from the original purpose of insurance," State Insurance Commissioner Owen B. Hunt declared last night in an address before the closing banquet of the three-day convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Mutual Insurance companies at The Castleton.

He warned his hearers to avoid following the same error.

Commissioner Hunt delivered the principal evening address at the dinner which nearly 170 delegates and their wives and guests attended. The group was entertained by an illustrated address which "Cy" Hunsford, Pittsburgh newspaper cartoonist, gave.

The banquet toastmaster was Attorney George W. Muse. "Insurance was originally the banding together of a group of people for their mutual protection against individual disasters of various kinds," the insurance commissioner said.

It is necessary, of course, that some of its forms be operated on a vastly larger scale than in earlier times.

Pet Parade Awards
On Monday Morning

With a scorching sun beating down upon it, an army of proud pet owners of every kind—dog and old possessors alike—paraded through downtown streets Thursday afternoon as sidewalk crowds roared with laughter at the spontaneous but amusing antics the pet participants provided.

Under the auspices of the city's new Educational Recreational Council, nearly 700 pet owners, stepping lively behind two bands, put on a pet shindig which delighted in every way throughs that turned out for it. It was a success in every way, even though the day was hot.

Ahead of the paraders went special traffic police who cleared the way for the young marchers.

Starts At Playground

Mobilized at the Rotary playground down on the old Rosena furnace grounds, the march moved up South Jefferson street to East Washington, over East Washington past crowds to Mill and down South Mill to the point from which it started.

There were dogs—everywhere you looked—and there were pet cats, large and small, monkeys, a black sheep, goats, crows—big ink-black ones—parrots, rabbits, chickens, squirrels, ponies, turtles—riding in a basket—and there were other pets—a little snake, too—in the line of march.

Spectators stood as close to the paraders as they could to see what some were carrying in baskets. The stores were forsaken by clerks as the group, moving in divisions, passed by.

First came Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Richard E. Rentz, the parade marshal, walking side by side with a group of the 15 men who were judges at the show at the Rotary field.

Back of them was the snappy 42-piece Junior American Legion band led by Prof. J. F. Replogle.

Further back was "Steve's WPA Band," a group of colored musicians.

Dog Division First

The little dogs came first in the parade. They were followed by the "dog division" which included a variety of breeds, from the tiny Chihuahua to the massive Mastiff.

Next came the "cat division" with felines of all shapes and sizes, from the sleek Siamese to the scruffy tabby.

The "monkey division" followed, with several small primates on leashes, and then the "bird division" with a variety of colorful fowl.

The "squirrel division" was next, with several bushy-tailed critters on leashes, and then the "pony division" with several small horses and ponies.

The "turtle division" followed, with several large turtles on leashes, and then the "snake division" with a variety of snakes, including a large python.

The "other pets division" was next, with a variety of other animals, including a ferret, a hamster, and a guinea pig.

The "band division" followed, with the Junior American Legion band and "Steve's WPA Band" playing lively music.

The parade ended at the Rotary field, where the winners of the pet show were announced. The winners included a variety of breeds, from the tiny Chihuahua to the massive Mastiff.

HOBBES, N. M., June 24.—

Three survivors were treated today for injuries received in an explosion of 100 quarts of nitroglycerine which took eight lives last Thursday in the Monument Oil field, 10 miles southwest of Hobbes.

The explosion was being prepared for "shooting" a well and was being lowered into the well when it went off in the hands of an employee of the American Glycerine company.

The dead: George A. Caseman, 70, president of the National Trust and Savings company; Jack Starkey, superintendent Two-Story Drilling company; H. A. Greer, ganger for the shooting crew; J. T. Boughton, a driller; Ernest Houston, Alex. Blair, shooters helper; V. B. Peck, shooter.

The injured were J. B. Headley, Roswell, N. M., attorney; Ole Johnson, rigman, and Herman Crie, Johnson attorney.

Witnesses said Peck was fixing the time-clock on the "bomb," and the others were standing near the truck loaded with nitroglycerine.

Because of "uncertain explosive qualities of nitro," oil men said, the cause of the explosion probably will never be known.

Democratic Party Peace

Guffey-Lawrence Confer

By J. WILLIAM THIES

HARRISBURG, June 24.—

Consummation of the peace pact entered into by Pennsylvania Democratic leaders last week provided a lingering political headache for organization chieftains today.

So serious was the outcry voiced by Public Utility Commissioner Arthur Colegrove against alleged patronage reprisals touching "organization" workers that it brought U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey to the state capital for a quiet conference with Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence last night.

Guffey and Edward N. Jones, his state lieutenant, conferred with Lawrence—their political enemy in the primary campaign—at a local hotel.

Interviewed 15 miles outside Harrisburg as he was driving back to Washington, Guffey referred all queries to Lawrence.

"We talked generally about cementing plans for party harmony," Lawrence said, "and the senator wants to go into it."

(BULLETIN)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 24.—

Search for Medill McCormick, scion of the Chicago publishing family, was extended today to all sections of New Mexico when no trace of the youth was found in the Sandia Mountains, north of here, where he had been reported on a hiking trip.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, the youth's mother, said her greatest anxiety was that the boy may have been overtaken in a severe storm that raged in the rugged mountains yesterday and was suffering from exposure.

Former Congressman Albert G. Simms, the boy's stepfather, said he felt no alarm for the safety of young Medill, believing he sought shelter from the storm and will return home unharmed.

Young McCormick, accompanied by Richard Whitmer, 21, of Albuquerque, left here Wednesday forenoon in an automobile. They planned to drive about 15 miles into the mountains, and then hike to the rim of the Sandia range.

SHANGHAI, June 24.—

Japan, in a blow against treaty rights of the United States, Great Britain, and other major foreign powers, today took over judicial as well as military control of the occupied areas in China.

Abolition of all extra-territorial rights for "foreigners in Japanese-occupied districts was proclaimed by the Japanese official spokesman.

Under the principle of extra-territoriality, granted the United States following the Boxer uprising, America maintains her own courts in Shanghai and other principal cities, where American citizens are tried.

Incident Causing Move
The spokesman's announcement, which is likely to bring protests from abroad, grew out of Wednesday's incident in which a Japanese sentry allegedly slapped an American missionary, Dr. J. C. Thompson.

Dr. Thompson said he was defending his rickshaw coolie from a threatened beating by Japanese soldiers. The American consulate lodged a protest.

Foreigners in Nippon-held parts of China, the spokesman insisted, hereafter will be under Japanese law as much as though they were in Japan. They will be granted no special privileges.

U. S. To Insist On Rights
Washington, June 24.—The American government will insist upon preservation of its rights of extra-territoriality in all of China, high state department officials firmly declared today.

Officials were profoundly shocked by news reports from China that Japan openly was stating that henceforth, in areas conquered by the Japanese army, the extra-territorial rights guaranteed the United States by China, and in effect for many years, would be summarily abolished.

News reports that this drastic action would be taken by the Japanese government were being widely circulated.

Work on the diversion tunnel of Tionesta's flood control dam was at a complete standstill today with more than 80 per cent of the tunnel workers out on strike.

M. C. Seelig, partner of Richman & Murphy, contractors handling the job, declared he knew of no grievances which could have caused the walkout. He said an open shop was being maintained.

Normally, 100 men were being employed on the diversion tunnel, with wages ranging from 80 cents to $1.50 per hour. More men had been at work on this project than at any other part of the Tionesta reservoir.

Ickes Urges Permanent P. W. A.

Would Let Up In Projects During Prosperous Times, Says Ickes

MANY PROJECTS NOW APPROVED

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Soon after announcing another $61,000,000 in non-federal construction, PWA Administrator Ickes today urged permanent continuation of the Emergency Works Bureau in a "skeletonized" form during periods of prosperity to serve as a bulwark against business recessions.

Revealing that 20 per cent of the projects approved of PWA's backlog of almost 3,000 have been discarded by the administrator as recommended speed on the part of local communities in applying for allotments for public works.

Permanent PWA
"I think there should always be a permanent PWA," Ickes urged during his speech, "but it is to go ahead if a recession occurs. The present time is a very good example of what I mean."

"We will announce approval of projects as fast as possible but some localities don't seem to realize it is necessary to hurry their applications. We have had 1,000 new projects filed in the last few days, and only 78 more working days in which any community can get into the PWA program, in view of the limitations placed upon us by Congress."

line—some were early dragged—and the big dogs followed. Then came the unusual act, such as the goats and the cow.

At the Rotary field when the march ended, the young owners primped their petting pets all over again for the official judging.

And the pets had a right to persevere, for it was hot enough to cause the judges, not too cool themselves, to call things off as soon as the winning numbers were decided and to announce that the prize winners would be rewarded later.

Because most of the pets were suffering from the heat, the judges announced that prizes would be presented at a special motion picture showing of "Lord Jeff" at the Penn Theatre, North Mercer street, Monday morning, June 27, at 10 o'clock. The participants must bring with them their pet's tag number given to them by the judges yesterday. But do not bring pets. Without the number tag, no child will be admitted.

All the parades may attend the free show, and at the close the winning numbers will be announced and special prizes presented to the holders.

Judges who served included the mayor, Dick Rentsch, Rev. J. Joseph A. Doern, Ben Hogan, Dr. Harold A. Macurdy, Thomas J. Elliott, A. L. Bantz, Jr., Harry J. Clark, Jack Gerson, W. R. Short, V. O. Potter, Paul D. Weller, David P. McBride, John R. Hodge and Lauri G. Lauril.

STATE COMMISSION OF INSURANCE SPEAKS

days. Not only has it grown in size, however, but it has lost sight in many cases of the entire idea of mutual protection."

He advised the convention, representing mainly Pennsylvania domestic mutual companies engaged in fire and casualty business, to avoid being so-called cash policies as not being in keeping with the mutual character of the organizations. The only necessity other than a distribution of losses among the policyholders, he said, was the creation of proper reserves to guard against unusual catastrophes.

Presence of specialists in insurance and other important branches of present-day economic life on legislative bodies would add greatly in solving these problems, he added.

Geographical Method
"Modern government has to do with problems requiring highly specialized knowledge and the geographical system of representation is losing its effectiveness," Mr. Hunt declared.

"The geographical method undoubtedly had a considerable degree of efficiency in the days when the interests of the people of each section were closely allied," the commissioner pointed out. "Today, however, we have the most widely divergent interests and occupations in the same small area."

"Each congressional and legislative representative is thrust into problems involving technical knowledge of hundreds of different fields. He could not hope to gain a smattering knowledge of half of them in a long lifetime."

Toward the end of the address he said "we should not be too impatient with legislative bodies because of their apparent lack of efficiency," for, he added, "it is perhaps more surprising, considering all factors, that they accomplish as much as they do."

Officers Elected
Chosen president of the state association for 1933-34 was Milton E. Bowman, Hanover, Pa., who was first vice president during the past year. F. J. Varcoe, Honesdale, was named the only vice president for the coming year. Guy C. Eddy, of Lancaster, long-time secretary-treasurer of the organization, was re-elected.

Mrs. Henry B. Gibbel, Little, Pa., was named president of the women's auxiliary. Mrs. E. J. Varcoe of Honesdale was elected vice president, and Mrs. Guy C. Eddy, Lancaster, was chosen secretary and treasurer.

The convention city for next year will be selected later by the executive committee elected by the convention. Its full membership, the same as in the past year, includes: Paul W. Pearson, West Chester, Pa.; Elwood Root, West Point, Pa.; Henry B. Gibbel, Little, Pa.; E. D. Hahn, Reading, Pa.; Frank H. Shuman, Gettysburg, Pa.; J. H. R. Timanus, Philadelphia, Pa., and the president and secretary.

DEMOCRATIC PEACE NOT YET ESTABLISHED

he would take up with Guffey the Colegrove charges that federal patronage republicans against loyal Earle-Jones primary workers constituted a "sellout" of the organization.

Colegrove Makes Charges
Colegrove, former property and supplies secretary and Erie county Democratic leader, declared that many WPA workers who backed the organization ticket in the primary were being fired or demoted. Guffey, and through him, Jones handle Pennsylvania's federal patronage.

The inference drawn by organization Democrats was that Guffey was holding intact and strengthening the primary forces that aided him in the unsuccessful campaign for Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy, Guffey-CIO gubernatorial candidate.

Guffey said he hadn't read Colegrove's blast and added concerning his conference with Lawrence: "You'd better ask Mr. Lawrence about that."

"Going Down the Line"
Colegrove quoted a letter he attributed to Guffey and which said the senator was "going down the line" for those who did the same for him in the primary.

The letter was purportedly in explanation of the appointment of Donald Briggs, a Guffey worker, as Warren postmaster, replacing James K. Bell, an organization man.

Indicated "terms" in the peace pact were the election of Jones as vice chairman of the Democratic state committee; campaign chairman; and withdrawal of Matthew H. McCleary, Jr., Philadelphia Democratic leader, from active politics. All this has been accomplished in apparent exchange for Guffey support in the fall.

RIGHT OF BARD TO HAVE CHARGE OF PROBE ARGUED

tion he is an appointive officer under Gov. George H. Earle, one of those accused, the attorney general replied.

"The power of the attorney general to supersede the district attorney is not one granted to him by the governor, but one of the common law attributes of his office."

Says Court Has Ruled
Moreover, Bard told presiding Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, the state supreme court has previously ruled, and reiterated in the present case, that:

"The attorney general has absolute discretion to supersede the district attorney of Dauphin county in these very proceedings."

"Any attempt to review the discretion of the attorney general would necessarily involve an inquiry into his official acts and would be an unwarranted interference by the judiciary with the official conduct of a member of the executive branch of the state government," Bard stated in his 17-page brief.

Just as the supreme court of Pennsylvania is the final arbiter of the interpretation and constitutionality of statutes under the Pennsylvania constitution," Bard contended, "so is the attorney general the ultimate judge of the manner in which the commonwealth is to be represented in any particular criminal proceeding."

The Lancaster Democrat, a former U. S. attorney and, until his appointment, suggested Charles J. Margiotti as justice head, a member of the Public Utility Commission, pointed out he subscribed to an oath of office and is subject to impeachment or removal for misconduct.

"It must be presumed that, in the exercise of all his functions, including his right to supersede a district attorney, he (the attorney general) will act in a fair and impartial manner."

Cites Margiotti Case
Among other Bard cited the case of Commonwealth ex rel. Minerd v. Margiotti—that resulting from former Attorney General Margiotti's assumption of prosecution powers in the Fayette county "third degree" murder case—as the leading case "affirming the attorney general's common law right to supersede a district attorney."

Citing 13 general points in upholding his right to continue in charge of the graft-corruption probe, Bard told Presiding Judge Paul N. Schaeffer that Bard had:

"... done everything in his power to delay and prevent this investigation... and undertakes to appear herein in a dual capacity."

"Constitutional Right"
Shelley, fighting for what he said was his constitutional right as a local elective official, declared that to allow Bard to take over the inquiry would be contrary to public policy and in violation of the common law. He contended:

"To permit the attorney general to represent the commonwealth adversely to the interests of George H. Earle, III, would permit those accused to control and direct not only the defense of any proceedings which might be instituted by the prosecution thereof as well as all contrary to the interests of justice, and would impede, obstruct and prevent the proper administration of justice and destroy the confidence of the people in the administration of the law by the courts."

Shelley argued that one of the principal purposes of a grand jury investigation is "the secrecy and protection of the sources supplying the authorities with evidence and information."

Destroy Protection
To permit the investigation to be conducted by Bard, an official appointed by Governor Earle, one of those accused, would destroy that protection and impair, if not defeat, the purpose of the grand jury, he insisted.

Shelley held that Bard had prejudged the charges in that he already had advised the court on June 21 that after investigation he had found Shelley's reasons for wanting a grand jury probe "without foundation." And he said that Bard, in his "dual capacity" had:

"As attorney at law... represented, consulted and advised those whose conduct is to be investigated; as attorney general he seeks to displace and supersede the district attorney and control said investigation."

The determined Republican prosecutor, defending his part in the probe even though Judge Schaeffer already has announced he has "arrived at a decision," contended that under the Act of April 9, 1929, the attorney general may conduct any state investigation only with the governor's approval. Thus, he said, Bard is asking the right to investigate one upon whom he is investigating depends. Judge Schaeffer called a brief recess after hearing Shelley's argument.

tion had been decided upon by Japan, announced by an official Japanese spokesman in Shanghai, was without immediate confirmation through diplomatic channels. However, official diplomatic reports to the state department from its embassies and consulates abroad travel much more slowly than news dispatches.

There have been increasing evidences that Japan all along has intended abolishing the extra-territorial rights as well as blacking out America economically from the Asiatic scene.

Will Test Future Course
Responsible officials have said that if preliminary reports are true such a move will test the entire future course of America's policy in the Far East. It is of utmost importance, they said.

The rights of extra-territoriality have been observed by all nations under international law for a half century. They were granted the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Portugal and the Netherlands as well as to Japan, by China, in order to make possible the economic and commercial development of that backward land.

This right of extra-territoriality, officials explained, goes to the very roots of international privileges in the Far East.

Through this medium, the United States and other countries were guaranteed the right to maintain not only commercial contacts but to guarantee the legal rights against any possible local discrimination of Americans in China.

China One Exception
China is the single nation in all the world in which such rights of extra-territoriality are held by the United States or any foreign country. The peculiar privileges date back to the past century when China was unable to preserve law and order and foreigners were not safe in the country unless protected by their own armed forces.

Under these rights the United States government maintains its own courts in China, a branch of the United States Federal District of California. It has its own judges and other regular court attaches. When litigation arises concerning American or his rights in China it is handled by this court. The United States, like several other nations, also maintains troops in Shanghai, Peking and Tientsin. For many years it has kept a fleet in China waters further to guarantee American rights and protect American citizens.

U. S. Not To Give Recognition
The United States will not accept any step by Japan to abolish the rights of extra-territoriality. This government has not, and has no intention, of recognizing Japan's taking over by military force of any areas in China, it was stated. Therefore, this government looks upon the Chinese national government as the only vested authority in China, outside of its own rights under existing treaties.

Japan, itself, has heretofore avoided the endire issue in China by waging an "undeclared" war and asserting that she has no territorial designs on China but merely seeks to maintain her own rights. Japan has constantly insisted that it will make no attempt to encroach upon the rights of the United States and other nations.

Actually, however, in the puppet state of Manchukuo, which Japan seized out of North China in the war of 1931-32, all rights and virtually all commercial contacts formerly held by the United States, Britain and other countries, have been, in reality, abolished by Japan. Nippon, however, sticks to the letter of the law, insisting these rights are still observed, but sweeping them aside by methods which avoid the plain statutes.

Having walked 350,000 miles in Scotland and England, Mrs. G. Hill, now 68, has returned to her home in Masses, Wales, which she left 40 years ago in search of adventure. She has just been discharged from a hospital in Worthing, Eng., where she was confined with a broken hip. During her long hike, she took odd jobs, and smoked a clay pipe at intervals for company.

Hague in Court

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, defending himself in federal court at Newark against an injunction sought by the C. I. O. and the American Civil Liberties Union to restrain him from interfering with civil rights, urged a deportation of aliens and a "camp in Alaska" to retain native-born dissenters. Spaulding Frazier, dean of the Newark Law school and attorney for the C. I. O., asked Hague whether he would be the judge of who were "good Americans" and who were to be deported.

Many "ohs and ahs" were heard when the black sheep appeared in the parade. The sheep was the prettiest and best groomed Pa Newc has ever seen. Someone said it came from Sheep Hill, which sounds plausible.

There was something awful cute about the "cat brigade" in the pet parade. We suspect some of the entries ordinarily run at large in the alleys, but maybe we are too suspicious.

PRISON SPURS CAREER

(International News Service)
JACKSON, Mich. Time in prison can be spent for rehabilitation and the activities of Bowden Liff, 38-year old Jackson inmate, offer proof.

Entering prison eight years ago, Liff immediately began portrait painting on velvet. This is most difficult because work cannot be touched and colors cannot be blended until the paint dries.

Liff, who is to be released in three years, has sold many of his paintings and has orders for many more.

MAYBE A REAL IDEA

PITTSBURGH the other day a spontaneous demonstration on the part of many children apparently had something to do with the settling of a strike of employees at a park.

When some 4,000 children, intent upon a good time, gathered at the resort and found the merry-go-round, roller coaster and other amusements not operating, they set up a great howl of "we want rides." The clamor, it was reported, was terrific. The disputants withstood the hubbub for a half hour, then hastily arrived at terms, whereupon the impatient 4,000 transferred their attention to the amusements as operations were resumed.

There may be a lesson for adults in that juvenile demonstration. Perhaps if the host of common people, who normally stand with patient silence while their figurative toes are trampled by strikes, would with equal fervor rise up to express their objections in no uncertain terms—for example in cases of strikes that cut off their food supply, or stop milk deliveries, or turn off electric power, or halt street cars, or stop big payrolls in their communities—those involved in the controversies would hasten to bring their costly quarrels to a prompt settlement.

TWO POLITICAL BATTLEFIELDS

The fall elections in New York State have advanced well toward the top of the list of important political events of the year because of the problems created by the death of Senator Royal S. Copeland. New York, with Democrats in both Senate seats and in the Governor's chair, now becomes the only state to elect two Senators this year, and the party which wins will place in Albany the first Governor to be elected for a four-year term. Party strength will be tested on national issues almost entirely, and the elections will determine whether the Democrats retain their influence in a state which will cast 47 electoral votes for President in 1940.

Out of this situation, Governor Herbert H. Lehman has emerged as the key man. He had been reluctant to run for another term as Governor, with the result that National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley and other party leaders had sought to persuade him to run for the Senate if Senator Robert F. Wagner would run for Governor. Mr. Wagner disliked the idea, believing his greatest usefulness to be in the Senate, and Mr. Lehman was unwilling to swap places, especially in view of Senator Wagner's attitude. Now the way has been cleared by Senator Copeland's death for both Mr. Lehman and Mr. Wagner, a powerful team, to run for the Senate. In a brief statement Mr. Lehman declared that "if my party desires me to be a candidate for the office of United States Senator to succeed Senator Copeland, I will accept the nomination."

Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., not so well known nationally but a New York favored son, is expected to be a leading contender for the gubernatorial nomination, although such men as Representative James M. Mead, Supreme Court Justice Charles Poole and Solicitor Robert H. Jackson also are being considered seriously. There is the possibility of a New Deal-supported dark horse. Mr. Bennett, however, gained a lead on the other possible aspirants by announcing his candidacy.

On the Republican side, racket-busting New York District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey is out in front for the gubernatorial nomination. His popular appeal and his vote-getting ability make him a powerful contender for any office, and he will be greatly feared by his Democratic opponents. For the Senate, Senator Charles McNary and three newspaper publishers, Frank S. Gannett, Jerome D. Barnum and Harold B. Johnson.

Thus bang-to campaigns are assured in the nation's two most populous states, New York and Pennsylvania, with the outcome anybody's guess. Becoming the Pennsylvania situation will be the controversy over "graft and corruption" in the present administration, while New York will see a battle of personalities around national and fundamental issues. The outcome of these two elections promises to be more barometric than any other state contests. As New York and Pennsylvania go in 1938, so may go the nation in 1940.

JOLT TO SMUGNESS

A writer in the New York Times thinks statistics are too one-sided. He suggests it would be an excellent thing for many sufferers from the uterus to see in print the statistics on such matters as these:

The number of people employed; the number attending baseball games and moving pictures; the number who stayed out of jail because they are honest and law-abiding; the number who pay their taxes; and the amount of hair and eggs consumed at breakfast in America on any given day.

There is something to be said, of course, for taking this view of the contemporary scene.

On the other hand, haven't we been too smug in the past about our American high standard of living? Don't we need to know that some may be hungry while others are fed, that crime is increasing because we don't know how to stop it, and that some of our moral standards have shrunk almost to invisibility? If the gloomy statistics should jar us out of our complacency and set us to thinking, they would be well worth while.

DR. MOLEY'S ADVICE

Dr. Raymond Moley, disfigured and reconstructed Brian Trustee, said a number of things while addressing the Economic Club here. But none of his words were more to the point than the exhortation to "get rid of the Charles McCarthy congressmen" next fall.

There isn't anything of greater political importance just now than the acquisition of a national legislative body in which the Roosevelt robots will be conspicuous by their absence.

The way to get such a congress is to do as Dr. Moley suggests, forget party lines and "comps," and vote for real men who will put an end to the travesty in Washington that is wrecking America.—Detroit Free Press.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILDREN EXCITED BY RADIO

Consider the thousands of boys and girls from 5 to 14 in the United States, who even on a clear and sunny afternoon sit for hours or, too often, sit, stand tense and gnaw their nails beside the radio while some exciting, fearful, gruesome program is on. Go out to the neighborhood playground. See the boys and girls there suddenly drop ball, bat or glove and make for the house when some one shouts, "Time for—"

Can the like be observed in any other country in the world? Except in the United States parents, as a rule, control the dial, which means they control their children. What is more, they have little reason to control the dial. What is on the air for them is virtually never of the nerve-racking sort to which our children are allured.

In European countries, owners of radio receiving sets, like owners of cars, pay a license fee, about $2.50. With the revenue therefrom, programs are financed; they are not left to the mercy of sponsors. The broadcaster in Great Britain devotes most of the time to what we would call high-grade music, little to dance music and jazz. The dance music does not come on till after 11 p. m., when young British children are in bed asleep.

A large place is given to the drama, talks on current events and problems of non-partisan nature, science, literature, civics, history. As in the states, there is about one "radio set for every four persons." In addition to the radio programs in the newspapers in England, "Radio Times," a detailed program, is subscribed to by about half the radio owners there. It looks as if they must dial more intelligently than we do.

High-Grade Music Broadcast
In Italy, Germany and Russia, what is termed education might, in general, be classed as propaganda for the nation and its leaders in government. But Germany's chief radio program of entertainment is the playing of first-class symphony orchestra, chamber music, opera and high-grade solo music. The opera and classical music lead on the air in Italy where, as in Germany, light music and jazz are negligible.

In Russia, 90 per cent of the broadcasts are of classical folk music. Would it be better for us and our children if we in the United States had a radio system like some of those of Europe? Would freedom of speech suffer then? Would it make dictatorship more imminent? Have England's liberties been so endangered?

Maybe we prefer things as they are. Some say that children eventually will grow caloused and that some of us who are excited about the mental hygiene hazards of the air have no occasion to be concerned. A few others say, "Why not live with as much excitement as we can get? And as for culture, let it be what the people want; let their primitive impulses be their guide? What do you think?"

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SO WHAT?

George Warrington's sanitary sewer was a great invention and even small villages would like to have such a system. Laddonia, Mo., is such a village.

There are about one thousand people in Laddonia. Their representatives in the congress of the United States—both the Missouri senator and the member of the house of representatives—are good New Dealers and they, naturally, wish to use the money distributed by the New Deal for the usual purposes of feathering and keeping cooled the votes of the "dear people" beneficiaries of the largesse of the present administration.

The people of Laddonia have heretofore relied for bathroom equipment upon the Chick Sale "Specialty" and the family wash tub. There are just three equipped bathrooms in Laddonia, the waste disposal in these bathrooms being disposed of in a septic tank.

The people of Laddonia thought it would be a fine thing to have a sewer and they persuaded the W. P. A. authorities to obtain thirty thousand dollars to build one. It was built—but to and behold! There was no waterworks system in Laddonia and the Missouri State Board of Health has just determined that there being no public water system, the sewer cannot be used. So what?

Are Beavers Scabs? Should They Build Dams? A New Deal "Problem"

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The point is raised by numerous correspondents of the Interior and agriculture departments that the government has no right to put a big dam building program throughout the United States.

Most, if not all of this mail undoubtedly is josh stuff, but it is funny, at that.

Beavers, as we all know, build dams, specializing on small streams, thus creating little lakes, which conserve the country's water supplies. The streams dry up in periods of drought, but the lakes remain, keeping the respective vicinities productively wet.

At least, that used to be the case. But, with the setting up of our continent, the beavers have been largely exterminated. Hence, no more beaver-dams, resulting in a disturbance of nature, with bad irrigation consequences.

Some of our conservationists have hit on the scheme of re-planting the beavers, getting back to first principles.

BEAVERS ARE SCARCE
The theory is this:

Beavers now are pretty scarce. Still, they are to be had, a few at a time, at a price of $8 per beaver.

All right. Get about $8,000 worth of beavers to work on a promising dam. Soon they will have it dammed. Meanwhile they will have increased and multiplied. Then there will be enough of them to recolonize in half a dozen rivulets. And so on "ad infinitum."

In four or five seasons the whole dried-out portion of the continent will be re-irrigated.

WORKS OVERTIME
The objection, as urged by fault-finders with the program, is that beavers will take the places of human mules, who might be employed in dam construction.

Furthermore, the beaver cannot be restricted to a 44 or a 40-hour week.

Nor can he be restricted to a 25 or a 40-cent per hour rate of pay. In short, he is a "scab."

Wrong yet, he hasn't a voice, like the human relief beneficiary.

COMIC BUT SERIOUS
Letters to this effect, as previously remarked, unquestionably generally are intended to be jocose.

Nevertheless, there is in some of them an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with the administration's relief program—of sarcasm, and disbelief in the New Deal's system.

I have seen about a busload of these letters.

HE CAN RETIRE NOW
Congressional Librarian Herbert Putnam got the equivalent of his pension just before congress adjourned.

Congressional Librarian for 40 years and 75 years old, the increased library from 1,000,000 to more than 5,000,000 volumes, he could not retire because he had nothing to retire on.

Army mules were being retired to comfortable pastures, but there was no provision for a retiring congressional librarian.

Well, at the last minute congress fixed it. It created, at $5,000 annually, the office of "congressional librarian emeritus"—which he can quit on—a ret. in pay of 50 per cent. quit on between 70 and 80. It is a fair split with an army mule, anyway.

THE New Deal leaders know this and the anti-New Deal leaders know this, but probably the man who knows it best is Mr. James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. That makes the lack of sympathy which Mr. Farley has so often evinced toward the effort to drive the anti-New Deal Senators out of public life the more significant. It makes logical the theory cherished by some close friends of Mr. Farley that when the time comes his efforts will be concentrated, not upon nominating Mr. Roosevelt's choice in the convention, but upon the nomination of the choice of his opponents. Rather, the Farley influence will be exerted in favor of a compromise candidate who is not more than fifty per cent. Roosevelt, and not more than fifty per cent. anti, as the only way to hold the Democratic party together in the next campaign.

THE thing about which Mr. Farley is most concerned is the Democratic party. He puts his country and his church ahead of his party, but he puts the Democratic party last. He is anxious to avoid seeing the party bust up two years from now. He is perfectly well aware that if the anti-New Deal group now advising the President succeeds in dominating the convention and nominating a hundred per cent. New Dealer, a bolt of conservative Democrats cannot be avoided. He is equally aware that if the conservative control and the nominee is someone personally and politically friendly to the President, the New Dealers cannot be held in line for him. The orthodox political solution for this sort of problem is, of course, a compromise candidate.

There is no doubt that that is Mr. Farley's idea of what ought to happen in the 1940 convention, and there is very little doubt that that is what he will try to bring about.

THIS completely accounts for his anti-repress attitude and is completely accounts for the extreme bitterness toward him of the coming radicals of the White House circle, who feel that they have the world in a sling and are determined to nominate "one of us" in 1940. To these, the Farley attitude seems outrageous and they have not kept their eyes concealed from the President. Some of them have reached the stage where they are sponsoring various unkind stories about the national chairman. All of this leaves Mr. Farley in a very tight position. In the best position to judge and convince that he still will be successful in playing politics long after the names of the amateurs who are trying to put him in the doghouse have been forgotten.

THE situation is easy to understand. If Mr. Roosevelt permits these anti-administration Senators to be re-nominated and re-elected he not only strengthens the opposition to him in the next Congress, and strengthens the anti-New Deal movement in the party, but he greatly diminishes his chances of nominating the 1940 candidate or dictating the 1940 platform. Because it is against the White House wish and weight the Senators who have been blacklisted by the presidential group can win in their state primaries this summer, it puts them in position where either they personally or the party faction with which they are called can easily win in the primaries to select delegates two years hence.

AND that means that these delegations distinctly would not be controlled from the White House. It means that they would be anti-administration, anti-New Deal, conservative, inclined. No one realizes this better than the little group of "influential insiders" who with the President's approval, managed the Iowa fight against Senator Gaietta. They know perfectly well that the success of the anti-court-packing Senators in the primaries is a real menace to New Deal domination of the convention. This year, in the States where the Senatorial candidates not supported by the administration win over those that have its support, it can be set down as fairly certain the delegation from those States next year will not belong to Mr. Roosevelt.

THE New Deal leaders know this and the anti-New Deal leaders know this, but probably the man who knows it best is Mr. James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. That makes the lack of sympathy which Mr. Farley has so often evinced toward the effort to drive the anti-New Deal Senators out of public life the more significant. Flowers To Decorate Meth-

It will be daisy time Sunday morning at the Methodist church, when the congregation members will arrive to find the entire interior of the building bedecked with wild daisies.

Members of the Sunday school classes are to go out in the fields and gather an abundant number of the pretty flowers. These flowers will then be left at the church on Saturday afternoon or evening, and the committee in charge will undertake the task of decorating the church.

This decorating scheme is an annual affair, and although the daisy is quite a common flower, it makes the interior of the building very attractive.

Those on the decorating committee include: Mrs. Ralph Snowden, chairman; Mrs. Ben Harland, Mrs. Susan Wylie, and Mrs. Leora Bretell.

Newsprint Industry Promises Much For Development Of South

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1938, Publishers' Financial Bureau)
CHICAGO, June 24.—A new industry is being born in the South. At Lufkin, Texas, next month the ground will be broken for a new newspaper mill. This will be the first mill making newsprint from southern pine. Its effect will be far-reaching. It will be another step in the industrialization of the New South. Low costs in the South will force northern newsprint makers to follow the trend of the textile mills toward the Gulf. Fast-growing southern pine will become a new major crop possibly as important in the years to come as cotton is today. This is a significant event.

Roger W. Babson major crop possibly as important in the years to come as cotton is today. This is a significant event. The South's great problem, even before the Civil War, was its one-crop economy. Cotton was king. When cotton prices were high or crops good, the South prospered. When cotton prices were low or crops failed, there were hard times below the Mason-Dixon Line. Southern editors and statesmen have patiently worked for decades teaching the lesson of farm diversification. Great progress has been made, particularly during the last fifteen years, in the rounding-out of southern agriculture. Here in the Middle West, farm people are already alarmed by the inroads southern corn, beef, truck crops, and dairy products are making in their markets.

Industries Trek Southward
Meanwhile, there has been tremendous industrial progress. A big labor supply, the proximity to the cotton fields, good water-power, combined with union troubles in the North, long ago forced New England textile mills to move to the Piedmont section of the Carolinas and Georgia. In more recent years, however, the migration of northern industries has broadened. From the northwestern and midwestern states, other businesses have pulled up stakes and moved toward the Gulf. Today the South is not only the cotton-textile center of the country but it has growing interests in iron and steel, in pottery, in clothing, in chemicals, and in kraft paper.

The discovery of the great oil fields of Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana gave the South another hypodermic. With petroleum came a myriad of by-product industries and service businesses. The fast-growing sections of the United States today are in the oil regions of the South and Southwest. Furthermore, during the last decade the South has vigorously advertised its advantages as a vacation land. Hundreds of thousands of people now make an annual pilgrimage to Florida and the Gulf Coast, to Texas and Arkansas, to New Mexico and Arizona. The resort business has become a thriving industry.

Cotton Crisis Approaching
While all these changes have been going on, cotton has still remained king. During the last five years our huge export markets for cotton have been steadily dwindling. Each season the world takes less of our crop than it did the previous year. At the same time, Brazil, Egypt, and North China have become important cotton-growers. Moreover, the Sino-Japanese war means that we will eventually lose another major customer—Japan. Yet, while our overseas markets are becoming smaller, our crops are becoming larger. Our 1937 cotton pick was the largest in all history.

Neither the Department of Agriculture nor the New Deal can guarantee good prices if the South raises more cotton each year than this country, or the world, wants. Therefore, cotton acreage must be used for other products. This means the loss of jobs and livelihood for hundreds of thousands of field-hands and share-croppers. To add to the cotton crisis, mechanical cotton pickers are going into use on more plantations each year. This means even less jobs for field-hands. Hence, not only must new uses be found for cotton lands, but new employment must be provided for cotton workers.

Southern Newsprint A Reality
In the last few years, more and more attention has been focussed on the huge slash pine forests of Dixie. The southern pine reaches maturity in about 15 years—twice as fast as the slow-growing northern softwoods. Because of this rapid growth of the southern pine, good forestry methods produce real results. Hence, foresters have been intensely interested in finding new uses for the pine. The question has been: Could not this southern pine be used for newsprint? If so, there would be a tremendous market. Last year, newspapers used nearly 4,000,000 tons of newsprint, about 80 per cent of which comes from the spruce of Canada.

It is a long way from Northern Ontario to Southern Texas. Costs of transportation are high. Southern newspaper publishers have insisted that slash pine could be developed into newsprint. Dr. Charles H. Henry, noted Georgia scientist, has been experimenting for years. At last, the end of the road is in sight. At Lufkin, Texas, about 60 miles from the western border of Louisiana, the ground will soon be broken for the first southern newsprint mill. As time goes on, I believe the newsprint industry will be a major factor in the growth of Dixie. Pine will someday take its place beside cotton, corn, and citrus as one of the major crops of the South.

Need More Funds In Hunt For Spies

President Says Spy Hunt
Will Be Pressed In United States

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Disturbed by New York grand jury revelations of German spy activities in this country, President Roosevelt today declared that the army and navy intelligence services should be given more money to run down such espionage in this country.

The intelligence services of both army and navy have been held pretty tightly in the matter of money, the president said, as he indicated clearly the government's intention to run down foreign spy activities within our borders.

At the same time, the president condemned Leopold C. Trepper, the German who headed the spy investigation, for requesting his post to write sensational articles detailing the inside workings of the spy hunt.

The president said a publication of these articles by newspapers in advance of the trial of the accused German secret agent might possibly jeopardize government prosecution in a matter vitally affecting national defense.

He appealed to editors on a combination of patriotism and ethics to refrain from such action.

Gatrell And Byers Chosen Counselors For Y. M. C. A. Camp

Two Named Today, Others Will Be Picked Later For Junior Posts

Two additional counselors for Camp Fred L. Ritz of the New Castle Y. M. C. A.—David Gatrell and Sam Byers—were appointed today.

Gatrell, an attendant at Camp Ritz for seven years and a counselor for two, attends Allegheny college. Scholarship honors have gone to him. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Gatrell, Hullett avenue.

Byers, a former Ritz camper, was named for the first two weeks of camp. Active in Hi-Y work, he will make an excellent leader for athletic clubs at the camp as well as an able cabin counselor. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Byers, Garfield avenue.

Until the occasion demands, appointment of other counselors, the Y. M. C. A. announced, will be delayed. A young man to qualify for such a post must have been a camper for a while and must possess qualities of leadership. He must have personality and a willingness to co-operate. Junior counselors will be named within the next few days. They serve under the senior counselors and succeed them when the seniors leave service.

Barbara's Husband Is Ready To Go To London, He Reports

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 24.—Count Kurt Von Haugwitz-Reventlow, Danish husband of the former Barbara Hutton, informed International News Service this evening he is ready to go to London any time the authorities wish him.

"I have not been officially notified of a warrant being issued for my arrest in London," he said. "But they want me there I am perfectly willing to go."

Reventlow had spent the day coaching reporters and others anxious to see him. Accompanied by a slim blond girl and another man he left his hotel at lunch-time for an unknown destination and did not return for several hours. His car was followed continually by another carrying bodyguards.

Germany To Assume Debts Of Austrians To Great Britain

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 24.—Negotiations between London and Berlin regarding debts owed by Austria have been successfully completed. It was reported today.

It was understood that Germany has agreed to take over the full Austrian debt to Britain and British interests. In return, the British government will not insist that the Reich officially and publicly recognize Austria's debt. It was believed also that Britain will make certain trade concessions to Germany.

Politics must be a profession. Only the professional can get the same pay for doing the job wrong.

Just Before the Mine Rescue

Rescue workers are shown at the mouth of the 100-foot shaft near Ashland, Pa., where Peter Shinkowsky, coal miner, and his son, Peter, Jr., were trapped for forty-five hours. A pipe was driven into the shaft, and supplied the men with air, food and water. Father and son walked away unaided after the debris blocking the shaft was cleared away. (Central Press)

Correct this sentence: "This government spending is wrong," said the congressman, "and I won't use any of the money."

GAS PRICE WAR

IS ABOUT OVER

Some of the gasoline stations had withdrawn from the gasoline war this morning, and returned to original prices. Of course the cut in prices largely increased the amount of gasoline being sold in this vicinity. The annual picnic of the Sunday school of the mission is being arranged for July 28. It will take place at "Fillip." Some folks were also induced to bring the old car out to "visit their friends."

MISSION WILL HOLD

OUTDOOR SERVICES

Superintendent Archie Gibson and his City Rescue Mission aides will conduct special street services Saturday evening. It was announced today.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Coast

Indians of British Columbia are doing the "Red Fur Dance," according to Rev. F. Conley of Victoria, who urged that the Anglican Synod support enforcement of the anti-potlatch laws.

"The Red Fur Dance is the most devilish spectacle I have ever witnessed, and closely related to the forbidden 'Sun Dance'."

During potlaches, at which the dances were a feature, Indians distributed gifts, the more property given away the higher the position of the giver in the tribe. So intense grew the competition in the giving of "bigger and better potlaches" that misery and starvation resulted and the government stepped in.

Large Sum For Highway Work In Pennsylvania

Allotments Will Be Made For 1940 And 1941 Under New Bill

By ARTHUR C. WIMMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Pennsylvania has been assured a total of $13,134,000 in federal grants for highway construction and grade crossing eliminations during the fiscal years of 1940 and 1941 by a bill signed by the president.

The measure, known as the Hayden-Curtwright bill, was passed by congress early this month. It established a program of federal aid for road and grade crossing projects in the coming two fiscal years. Under the law, Pennsylvania will receive a greater total of grants than all states save Texas and New York.

The Keystone state will receive $5,969,000 in the 1940 fiscal year commencing July 1, 1939, and $7,165,000 in the 1941 fiscal year commencing July 1, 1940. Of the 1940 allocation, $4,207,000 will be for federal-aid highways, $2,000,000 for secondary or feeder roads, and $1,762,000 for grade crossing eliminations. Of the 1941 appropriation, $4,838,000 will be for federal-aid highways, $3,000,000 for secondary or grade crossing elimination.

The state is required to match the road funds.

Sharing Service With The Living Christ "Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Mark 16:20—"And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The international uniform lesson on the above topic for June 25 is Mark 16:1-8, 14-16, 19, 20, the Golden Text being verse 20. "And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them.")

The resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead is the most meaningful incident in all history and the fundamental teaching of the Christian religion, exceeding all others in its significance and its influence upon the thought and life of the human race. "If Christ had not been raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also that are fallen asleep in Christ have perished." In other words, the hopes of two worlds are dependent on this sublime truth.

The Empty Tomb
Those devoted women who came to the tomb very early in the morning, the first day of the week, bearing spices with which they intended to embalm the dead body of their Lord, were motivated by undying love attended by a dead faith and a dead hope. Their faith and their hope had become matters of the past tense. All Jesus' disciples could say was "We hoped that it was he that should redeem Israel." Their only expectation was that of finding the corpse of a loved one.

But the glad news, "He is risen," he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him," changed the picture completely. Here are present and future tenses again for their religion and with these, faith and hope were born again in their hearts. This is what the empty tomb did for Jesus' disciples when they realized that instead of a corpse to embalm, they had a living Saviour to serve in newness of life.

The Angel Message
"Entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side arrayed in a white robe; and they were amazed. And he said unto them, Be not amazed; ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him." And they beheld not only an empty grave, but an empty chrysalis—like shell of grave clothes lying undisturbed in their original position in the form of his body. Beholding this brought their faith and hope to life again. "They saw and believed!"

"And Peter"
It is natural that Mark, who got from Peter the facts of his gospel, should be the one to pass on the message the angel gave for the special comfort of Peter, who denied Christ. "Go tell his disciples and Peter, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him, as he said unto you." If Judas, the betrayer, had not already closed the door of hope by suicide, might the message not have read "And Peter and Judas?" Truly there are no hopeless cases with Jesus! His forgiving love and saving grace are all inclusive. "Whosoever will, may come."

The Work-Sharing Saviour
For 40 days he appeared from time to time among his disciples until he had re-established their faith in him as their living divine Saviour. And then as he parted from them in his ascension he bestowed them and commissioned them to evangelize the world, pledging them his continuing presence through the ages. "And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them."

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The United States Secret Service, whose special business it is to run down counterfeiters, has recently uncovered what it charges is the biggest ring of counterfeiters caught in many a day. James J. Maloney, Chief of the Secret Service, claims that the gang passed half a million dollars' worth of bad five, ten and twenty-dollar bills.

The counterfeiting of Uncle Sam's paper money is pretty hard to stamp out. That's why we have a Secret Service. Service is kept on the jump from coast to coast, stamping out the green goods men who are specializing in five, ten and twenty-dollar notes.

Of all crime, though, counterfeiting pays the least returns. Our Uncle Sam, usually a slow-moving old gentleman and difficult to provoke, absolutely will not stand for anyone tampering with his money. Punishment follows almost as certain as death and taxes.

A striking instance of this fact occurred when the Service struck a telling blow at an international ring which was turning out the best counterfeit money ever circulated in the United States. At its head was a young heart specialist, Dr. Valentine J. Burton, a native of Russia, a naturalized American and a Communist to boot. He was convicted in the Federal Court of New York of being involved in the unloading of $100,000 in counterfeit bills in Chicago.

This ring was formed primarily to flood the United States and South America with millions of dollars of its money in an attempt to discredit the American government. The trail was picked up by the Secret Service at the Democratic Convention in Houston, Texas, in 1928, and led to Berlin, where American agents, seeking to seize the engraving plates, found themselves a day too late, as the plates had been shipped to Moscow. It was charged specifically against Dr. Burton that he had passed $30,000 of the money in Berlin in 1930 and $6,000 more the following year, in Havana.

One of the most famous cases in which the Secret Service figured was in exposing the incredibly perfect counterfeiting of $100 silver certificates some years ago. The government had issued the bill bearing the portrait of Monroe, and within a year the Secret Service procured a counterfeit which at first defied identification. Even experts of the Bureau of Engraving pronounced the bill genuine. But Chief Bill Moran insisted it was a fake. He put the bill in boiling hot water, pulled the two halves apart, and showed the false silk threads which of a clever woman; and in almost every case some woman has been involved. Strange as it may seem, too, counterfeiters came from all walks of life—from the wealthy class, as well as from the poor.

It may take years, but the counterfeit is caught sooner or later. No man has ever prospered in the industry. If he does accumulate any money, it is spent in his defense in the courts. Some cases drag on for ten or twelve years, but eventually the relentless hounds that protect Uncle Sam's good money run down the wolves and put them away where the mouths will not bother them.

Bund Leader Held For Court

Pittsburgh Man Is Charged
With Practicing Medicine
Without License

PITTSBURGH, June 24—Eugene Harsch, leader of the German-American Bund here, today was being held for court under $1,000 bond as he faced charges of practicing medicine without a license for the second time in the last three years.

In 1935, according to the State Bureau of Professional Licensure, Harsch was placed on probation after being convicted of similar charges and discharged from probation only last year.

John H. Bishop, an investigator, stated Harsch had presented for him when he was in the "detention" about an "anasthetic" ailment. Bishop then produced a record from the bureau showing Harsch was not licensed, and that he was not listed under any branch of medicine, regardless of his claim to be a "naturopath."

Another investigator stated that Harsch had told him he was 15 pounds underweight and had prescribed medicine and a diet.

Conviction on the present charges would mean $500 fine or a six-month jail sentence, according to Bishop.

Harsch played a prominent part in the meeting attended by G. Wilhelm Kunze, national president of the Bund, last March which broke up in confusion when it was besieged by war veterans.

How About A Break For Mary?

Women Shoppers Are More Price Conscious Today

(International News Service)
NEW YORK—The fair sex has turned economist.

With a turn-about in buying psychology, most of America's army of 30,000,000 housewife shoppers have become price-conscious above variety conscious.

Retailing experts, backed up by the latest customer preference surveys, declare that the average shopper now gives first thought to the black-and-white figure on the price tag rather than the assortment of articles on counter and shelves.

Five studies in a leading New York store, and a survey by DePaul University of 10,314 Chicago housewives, have helped disclose this new importance of price in 1938-style retailing.

Chain Stores Preferred
The DePaul investigators found that 72 per cent of the women, in their self-styled hunt for "reasonable prices" for food, shop in chain stores where elimination of wholesale profits results in an average saving of about eight per cent, according to figures of the Federal Trade Commission.

In fact, the women in some sections are so price-conscious that they're willing to sacrifice such privileges as exchange of goods if they can get lower prices, say the experts.

Mother's Desire To Protect Baby Saves Her Life

(International News Service)
FRAME SWITCH, Tex.—Mrs. Alex Wutrich can thank her mother love today for the fact that she was not killed when a negro holdup man tried to rob her husband's store.

Mrs. Wutrich instinctively reached for her baby on the floor when the negro appeared and began to threaten her. As she bent over the negro fired, and the bullet went through the back of the chair, where it would almost certainly have caused her death had she remained upright.

The bullet continued through the chair and slightly wounded her husband. The negro was captured.

French Test New Type Of Diving Suit

(International News Service)
PARIS—A diving suit that requires no above-water connection has been given a successful test in the Seine river.

It is the invention of Commander Le Priur of the French navy and already has been partially adopted by the river fire brigade. The suit consists of a double sheet of rubber which is donned by the diver and into which is poured even gallons of water heated to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. It is claimed that the suit is so light that under water movement is scarcely hindered.

A compressed air cylinder from which air can be re-used at the diver's wish eliminates the necessity of an air-lead contact with a pump above water.

At the time of Commander Le Priur's test the temperature of the river water was 54 degrees Fahrenheit. After 15 minutes under 20 feet of water the temperature inside the suit had dropped only to 38 degrees.

How It Operates.
When the diver wishes to rise to the surface he does so readily by opening two valves in the feet of the suit. The warmer water flows out of the suit and there is thus no strain on the fabric when he reaches the surface and the external pressure ceases.

The rubber helmet and breathing apparatus can be worn separately and it is these that have been adopted by the river fire brigade. Commander Le Priur also maintains that his invention would be of great value to members of air raid defense brigades in areas affected by gas as the compressed air supply is sufficient to last two hours.

See Television
Linking Britain
And U. S. Soon

(International News Service)
LONDON—British television experts, cooperating with American technicians, believe that in two years time America and Britain will be able to "look into each other's affairs."

An expert connected with the British Broadcasting Company, and television set manufacturers said that he is convinced that in another two years America and the BBC will cooperate to perfect the reception of each other's television broadcast. It has been found that radiations which were supposed to leave the air altogether now return at great distances from the original station. Television signals from Alexander Palace—the first station to give regular broadcasts—are being picked up all over the world. Cape Town, Philadelphia and many other distant points are receiving these signals which are being relayed onto the television screen.

Offers Automatic 'Thumber' As Aid To Hitch-hikers

(International News Service)
TOCONIG, Conn.—Hitch-hikers take notice!

Wilbur S. O'Neill, a Tufts college student, has solved week-end transportation problems—with an automatic "thumber."

The ingenious device consists of a case on which is mounted a steel spring, attached to a closed hand with thumb extended. Made out of a piece of plywood, the hand is covered with tin foil (making it visible at night).

Before constructing the "thumber," it was difficult to secure a ride, O'Neill said, and in a good many cases he was left stranded and forced to spend the night in a hotel.

But the "thumber" has changed all that. Motorists gladly give him a lift and in several instances go out of their way to help him reach his destination.

The wayward son back from his wanderings still goes over the hills to the poorhouse, but he's looking for an asset.

Pure gold is labeled "24 carats."

OHIO TO WAR ON CARBON MONOXIDE AUTO FATALITIES

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O.—Carbon monoxide, deadly gas which has killed many motorists, is being warned upon by the Ohio health department. Assisted by state highway patrolmen, a group of doctors and industrial commission representatives, the health department takes a gas detecting apparatus on the highway to gather material pertinent to the actions of the fatal fumes.

Sometimes commercial vehicles are halted, made to proceed for two miles with all windows closed. An expert determines the amount of gas present in the machine at the end of the run.

Drivers are questioned as to the distance they are traveling, their working hours, previous accidents or illnesses, and then given tests which determine the amount of carbon monoxide in their blood.

PENDLETON, Ore.—An art gallery featuring famous Oregon Indians in full tribal regalia, dressed for the hunt, and in a number of other poses, in addition to the nine already completed, three other paintings will be finished soon by Wisenbach.

It is hoped the twelve pictures will form the nucleus for a group of Redman paintings that will grow throughout the years.

Snake Hunting Popular Sport In Wyoming

(International News Service)
CHEYENNE, Wyo.—Rattlesnake hunting was recommended recently by C. F. Seigfried, Wyoming state highway superintendent, as an invigorating sport.

"Of course, it's no sport for nervous people, but it will help to add spice to life if you like that sort of thing," Seigfried said.

The sport has become popular among engineers, contractors and farmers in the area south of Gillette, Wyo. The engineers, being scientifically minded, have developed a system in their recreation.

They have discovered that the snakes, on leaving their winter dens, travel in a straight line for some distance. When they kill a snake, they set up a stake marking the spot. The next day they kill another one and mark its location with a stake.

By sighting down the stakes, the engineers have been able to locate the dens and thus do some wholesale snake killing.

"There hasn't been a hunter bitten yet," Seigfried declared.

NEWTON, Mass.—This exclusive Boston suburban city is to be "sneezless" this summer. "Sneezless" if the club women are successful in their drive against ragweed, cause of hay fever. The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs voted to sponsor a drive in cooperation with Mayor Edwin O. Childs, to gather dogwood—to be picked by scores of volunteers and carried off in city trucks.

Belnick, Elman Will Appeal At Summer Concert

(International News Service)
NEW YORK—Arnold Belnick, 13 year old violinist who has already established himself as a concertmaster, and two other well known violinists, Mischa Elman and John Corigliano, have been added to the list of soloists for the summer concert season at Levensohn Stadium here.

Young Belnick is a protégé of the Paul Kochanski and recently won the $1,000 grand award in the finals of the Blauk Musical Star radio contest. He has been concertmaster for several years of the orchestra sponsored by the Friends of Music of the Lower Connecticut Valley.

Mayor LaGuardia with Adolph Levensohn as honorary chairman will attend the opening concert and Governor Lehman may attend.

It was a mistake to say anything about investigating life insurance companies. Now if it isn't done, everybody will wonder why.

President Will Revise Budget

New Estimates Of Federal Revenues And Expenditures To Be Made

WILL BE READY DURING JULY

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff
Copyright 1938

WASHINGTON, June 24.—President Roosevelt plans to issue a new budget message that will completely revise the estimates of federal revenues and expenditures submitted by him to Congress last January and which will cause the probable effect of the business slump on the treasury.

High officials in the budget bureau said the new statement on the government's financial position probably will be ready for publication in July.

While Mr. Roosevelt has made it a practice during the past few years to release a revised budget summation during the summer, budget and treasury officials several months ago had indicated this policy was to be abandoned this year.

Because of the $4,000,000,000 lending and spending program and the continuation of poor industrial conditions, it was decided to continue the mid-year recast of fiscal estimates.

Last January, the president told Congress the government expected to spend $6,869,000,000 during the 1939 fiscal year which starts July 1. For this period, Mr. Roosevelt forecast revenues of $5,919,437,000, leaving a deficit of approximately $949,000,000.

It is expected that the estimate of receipts will be revised downward by as much as $200,000,000, while the expenditure forecast may be increased between $50,000,000 and $1,000,000,000.

The January budget predicted income taxes would produce $2,414,000,000 during the next fiscal year. As business tobogganed to around 1932 levels in recent weeks, internal revenue officials conceded this income tax estimate may have been too optimistic.

Giants Purchase Bob Seeds From Newark Bears

Hard Hitting Outfielder Expected To Give Giants Added Power At Plate

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—Bob Seeds, veteran 30-year-old home run hitting sensation of the current International League pennant race today was bought outright by the New York Giants from the Newark Bears and is expected to take his place in the local team's outfield tomorrow.

Seeds will play left field, taking over the job held by Lou Chiozza since Joe Moore was injured. The transaction involved no transfer of other players and the amount paid for Seeds was not revealed.

Although he has had several try-outs with various major league clubs in the past and never could quite make the grade, the hard-pressed Giants accepted him as a potential addition to their batting punch.

In two games against Buffalo recently, Seeds hit seven home runs, four of them being in succession. In addition to the four straight circuit clouts, in the first of the two games, he also made two other hits and drove in 12 runs.

In 59 games this season he has made 76 hits, including 28 home runs, three triples, and seven doubles for a batting average of .332, with 95 runs batted in.

Livingston Wants To Quit Post On State Commission

Philadelphia Accountant Anxious To Return To Private Business

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Resignation of Donald M. Livingston, Philadelphia accountant, as a member of the Public Utility Commission was confirmed today by Gov. George H. Earle.

The governor admitted that Livingston had submitted his resignation but did not advance his reasons for quitting the $10,000-a-year job.

Governor Earle said he would endeavor to persuade Livingston to reconsider his move. Livingston, according to reports, desires to return to private business.

Some political observers, however, saw in Livingston's resignation a tie up with the retirement from politics of Matthew H. McCloskey, Jr., Philadelphia contractor and Democratic leader, a close personal friend of Livingston's. McCloskey recently left "leave up the ghost" supposedly as part of the peace pact between Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey in the healing of primary campaign scars.

Livingston was named to the five-man commission upon its creation, replacing the seven-man Public Service Commission in April of 1937.

Dalhover Taken To Milan, Mich., For Safekeeping

(International News Service)
DETROIT, June 24.—The last of the Al Brady gangsters, James Dalhover has been moved from the St. Joseph, Ind., county jail to forestall a possible jail break, it was learned here today.

Dalhover, now awaiting supreme court action on his appeal from a federal court death sentence, was reported moved to the Milan, Mich., federal detention farm, but officials there refused comment on the reports.

Dalhover was convicted of killing an Indiana state trooper during a bank holdup. Brady and Clarence Lee Shaffer, other gang members were shot to death in a Bangor, Me., G-man trap last October.

Before Tragedy Struck

No sign of impending tragedy shows in this picture of a smiling family. They are Mr. and Mrs. J. Ed Peek, and their daughter, Kathryn, of Anstell, Ga. The parents are dead. Their bodies, soaked with kerosene, were found in the family car in a gorge after it had plunged from a lofty bridge. Police are seeking the killers. Peek was to have been star witness in a murder case.

DEAD SEAL STILL BRINGS $2 IN CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

(International News Service)
CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A pair of Harvard students added an old law plus a dead seal to obtain a sum of $2 from the Cambridge city treasury. When the student pair entered the office of City Treasurer William J. Shea and demand $2 for a seal, they had shot at Marblehead. Shea at first objected. The students then showed him a copy of an old statute under which he found himself obligated to pay a $2 bounty on the seal's carcass, remove its nose so it could not be used for further collections, and report to the state treasurer, who must not only reimburse him for the bounty paid, but add an additional fifty cents for his trouble.

Chicago Man Is Title Winner

World Speed Typing Title Is Won By Norman Sakvig, 26

CHICAGO, June 24.—Chicago had its world champion Thursday, too. The crown of glory went to Norman Sakvig, 26, who rallied off with the professional speed typing title at a rate of 119 words per minute for the full hour round. His mark, however, was far under the 140 words a minute set by Albert Tanagra of New York who did not compete. Second in the field of five was Richard Meyers of Spokane, Wash., while Edna Rubin, 23, of Duluth, Minn., placed third. Sakvig, an employee of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, won a yard-high silver cup presented by the International Commercial School Association, sponsors of the event. Past champions have usually been able to cash in on their ability by exhibiting for the manufacturers of typewriters they use. Ben Posner, 23, of Tucson, Ariz., sped away with the amateur title. He typed 122 words a minute for one half-hour. As winner, he now becomes a professional under the rules of the meet. Miss Leonore Seaton of Seattle, a graduate of the University of Washington, set a world record of 99 words per minute in winning the dictating machine contest. Miss Evelyn Smith of Detroit was second. Contestants transcribed unfamiliar quotations from disks.

KEEPING WOODEN WARE

Wooden cooking utensils are likely to warp or mildew unless stored in a dry place. Carefully scrub such utensils with a small brush in hot water and soap suds. Rinse in warm water and wipe them dry. Place them near a stove until they are perfectly dry. Then store them in a dry place.

The eruption of geysers is caused by seepage from the surface which fills the geyser tube with a column of water. At a considerable depth the water receives heat from buried lava flows, or other volcanic sources, and when the temperature in the lower part of the tube is raised to such a point that the water boils in spite of the column above, a portion of the water is changed into steam and by expansion causes an overflow at the surface. This relieving of pressure causes a large quantity of water to flash into steam and eject the entire column into the air above.

Bigger and brighter patterns decorate the kerchiefs. Birds and flowers are seen on the latest linen squares in corals, blues and greens. Many of them have dark bindings and are hand rolled. Large tulip-squares and printed squares are carried for evening.

Provincial Players Ready For Opening

"The Night Of January 16th"
To Be Presented Three Nights Opening
June 27

Almost letter perfect in their lines, the Provincial Players are about ready for the curtain on the night of June 27, which is the first of three nights of presentation of the mystery "The Night of January 16th."

For weeks they have been rehearsing under the tutelage of James Solus and as the rehearsals draw to a close the indications are that the play is going to be the peak in the Provincial work thus far.

The play is the presentation of the mystery surrounding the murder of John Faulkner on the night of January 16. The jury trying the case is selected from the audience and return whatever verdict they believe justified.

Tickets are going fast and are on sale at Love and McKown drug store on North Mill street.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 24.—Max Schmeling, after a good night's sleep, awoke at Polytechnic hospital today to learn that motion pictures of the Joe Louis fight, which he had retracted claim of a foul.
The pictures disclosed that the titleholder threw no illegal punches, and that Schmeling, who suffered a fractured transverse process of the third lumbar vertebra, was beaten thoroughly by Louis shot two hard punches to the challenger's left side as Max dangled on the ropes.
Hospital officials reported that Schmeling's temperature and respiration have returned to normal and, although the pain of his injury is sharp at times, he is resting comfortably. He dozed off around 8 o'clock last night and slept well.
Dr. Robert Brown has ruled that Max must remain in the hospital three weeks if he hopes for a speedy recovery. Schmeling, however, has booked passage to his homeland on July 2 and intends to sail even if it is necessary to transfer him from the hospital to the liner Bremen by ambulance.

Wife Not Coming.
Reports that Schmeling's movie actress wife, Anya Onira, will come to America to care for her husband were turned false by Max's American manager, Joe Jacobs.

"Schmeling talked to her early Thursday and told her to wait in Berlin until he arrived on the Bremen, which leaves here July 2," Jacobs stated.

In an attempt to show the public that Max suffered serious injury during his 2:04 minute battle with Louis, his American manager, Joe Jacobs, is seeking permission from the hospital to make public X-ray plates.

Pictures of the bout in slow motion cleared up many points that caused disputes as a result of Louis' rapid-fire drive in boxing for Schmeling's hands. They also revealed that Max took a savage beating before (Continued On Next Page)

Technical Kayo, Official Ruling On Big Battle

Not Clean Knockout, Count Was Not Completed By Referee Donovan

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 24.—Although he lay on the canvas virtually unconscious and unable to arise, Max Schmeling was technically knocked out by Joe Louis in their title fight Wednesday night, various officials agreed today.

It wasn't a clean knockout because the count was not completed. Referee Arthur Donovan had reached five when he motioned that it was all over.

The fact that Trainer Max Marchionni tossed a towel into the ring in an attempt to save Schmeling from further punishment did not enter into the situation.

Under New York rules, a second cannot stop a fight, thus Donovan kicked the towel out of the ring and allowed the one-sided bout to continue until he decided that Schmeling had had enough.

Sportsmen Plan Event At New Castle Fair Grounds For Tomorrow

A great deal of interest is being shown in the trap and skeet shoots being sponsored by the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association and another is planned for Saturday afternoon at the New Castle Fair Grounds.

PLAN TO PLAY GAME ON SUNDAY

The scheduled K. Pulaski and Lawrence Indies game set for tonight at the Cedar street field, has been changed to Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Cedar street grounds. It was announced today.

This is a postponed City league game.

Towed behind automobiles, winter sports fans at Cape Cod, Mass., whisked on surfboards over frozen dunes.

Local Boxing Resumes Tonight

Frankie Moran, Classy Local Boy To Battle Smokey Robinson

TWO HEAVYWEIGHTS ON TONIGHT'S CARD

Although the Louis-Schmeling fight is over, the fans have not yet ceased talking about the blasting power in Louis' fists. However, they intend to take time out tonight to witness eight open air battles in the Grove Street playground which has been converted into a fist arena. The fights tonight will be the first open air battles in two years here and because there are many New Castle boxers carded against out-of-town scrappers, a large crowd is expected to be present when the first going rings at 8:30 p. m. E. S. T.

There should be plenty of dynamite exploded by the youngsters because some of the bouts are between heavyweights, others between middleweights, in fact, almost every division in pugilism will be represented. Some of the scrappers are renowned for their slugging ability, others for the lethal power in their gloves and other for their speed and science. It would not be surprising were a couple of knockouts produced.

The bouts will be staged by the Jefferson A. C. and have been sanctioned by the Pennsylvania State Athletic commission and the Allegheny Mountain division of the Amateur Athletic union. All of the performers will be examined by physicians prior to entering the ring and it is likely that Dr. W. E. McClelland, commissioner of boxing, may name Tom McMahon, former local heavyweight, as the referee. The judges will be selected this afternoon.

The ring has been set in the middle of the playground, above which will be a powerful light beneath a large shade which will give the fans a good view of every move the fighters make. There are ringside and reserve sections and immediately behind them are four sections of bleachers seats. The aisles are large and inside the tall iron fence has been suspended a new canvas which prevents a view from outside the arena.

The bouts will be as follows: Leo Platt, Youngstown, vs. Chuck Fullerton, New Castle, 142.
Nick Retardo, Ellwood City, vs. Battling Brant, Butler, 140.
Billy Reale, New Castle, vs. Roscoe White, Oil City, 160.
Mickie Medwick, New Castle, vs. Joe Kenneth, Youngstown, heavyweights.

Jimmy Scutelli, Oil City, vs. Leo Burnett, Youngstown, 112.
Chuck Arrest, New Castle, vs. Chuck Woods, Oil City, 142.
Jack Matthews, Wampum, vs. Frankie Karik, Youngstown, 160.
Frankie Moran, New Castle, vs. Smokey Robinson, Oil City, 126.

It was said today that due to a twist-up in names it had been said that Neneth was the same fellow who boxed Medwick at the Elks. He is a different fighter, but as big and as good, according to the records. Vince Joyce, trainer of Youngstown, will bring him and the other Youngstown boys here, and Ed Edlick will take charge of the Oil City lads. Emmett Rocco will handle Matthews and Tommy Leach will second the New Castle fighters.

The first fight will go on promptly at 8:30 p. m. The Grove street arena is in the rear of the P. & L. E. railroad drive, a few minutes walk from Washington street.

Two New Teams In Softball League

Canyon A. C. And Reiters Will Join City Softball League At Meeting Tonight

There will be a 12-team City Softball league for the second half of the season, it was announced by Franklin Crisci, president of the New Castle City Softball leagues. The Senior league has an important meeting at the "Y" tonight at 8 o'clock.

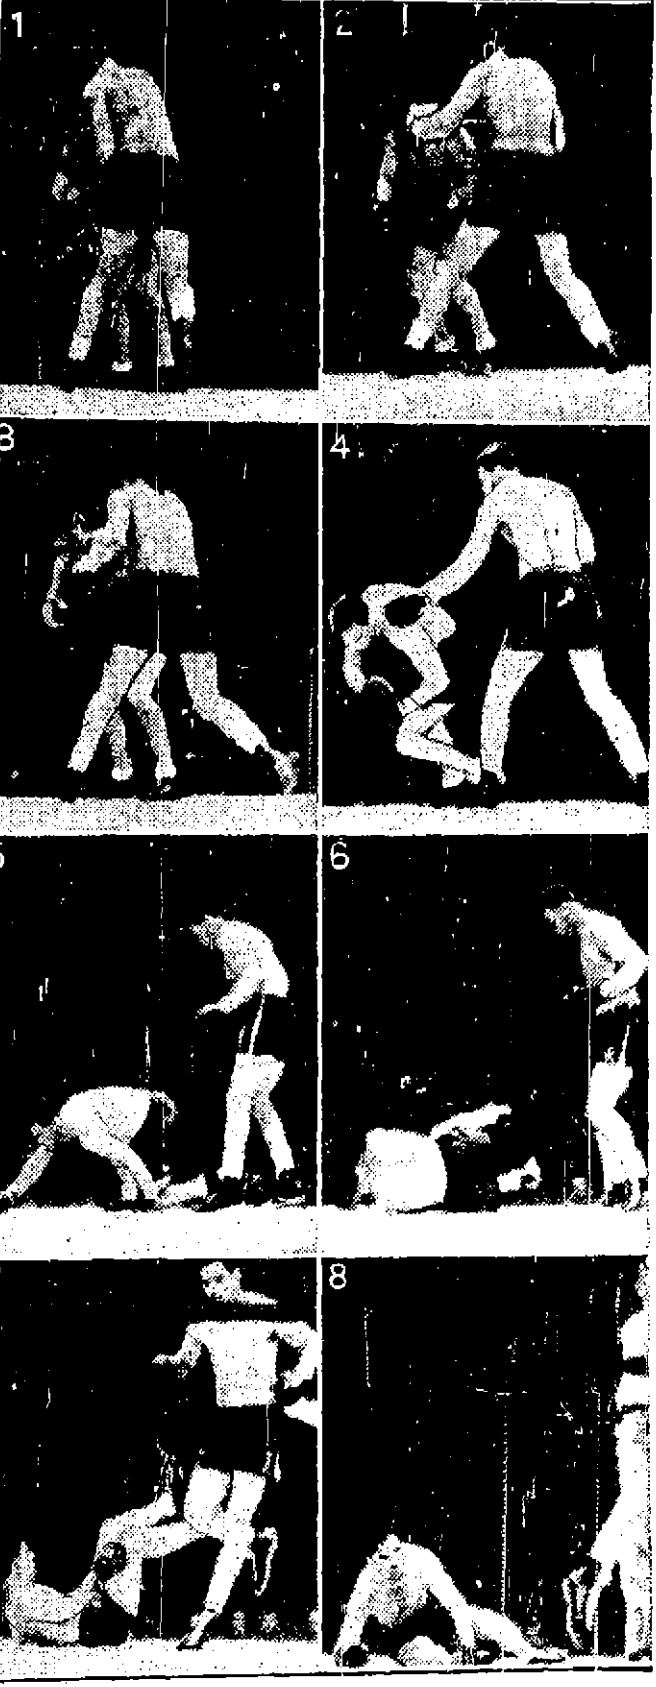

All managers of the teams should be present as a discussion of the new rules and a new ball for the second half will be taken up for final action by the managers. There is also a little unfinished business from the last meeting to settle.

Another Benefit Game
The managers of the Reiters and Canyon A. C. are asked to be present tonight to take out their franchises in the league. Also the managers of the Puntabones and Nomads of the Midlet league are asked to be present.

Plans will also be laid tonight for another big benefit game for young Stanley Lubinsky, who broke his leg in the first division and believes there is a possibility his boys might win.

Harrison Sanford, Cornell's crew coach, expects his eight to finish the Poughkeepsie regatta next Monday in the first division and believes there is a possibility his boys might win.

How Louis Kayoed Schmeling

Lawrence Loop Race Is Close

Wampum And Bessemer Are Tied For First Place In League

HILLSVILLE HAS WON 7 AND LOST 3

Teams in the Lawrence County Baseball League only have three more games to play until the first half of the schedule will have been completed. The race has been exceptionally close between Bessemer, Wampum, and Hillsville, and at present Wampum and Bessemer are tied for first place, each team having won 10 games and having lost two games.

Hillsville has won seven games and lost three games, but there yet remains a chance that Hillsville might slip into first place. Of course, Bessemer and Wampum would have to do some tall losing, but in baseball, like other sports, there always is a chance of something going awry.

The schedule for today follows: Hillsville at Capitolas (Washington field), South Side Merchants at Wampum, and Bessemer at South Hills (Moravia street hill).

The schedule for next Wednesday follows: South Side Merchants at Hillsville, Wampum at Bessemer and South Hills at Capitolas.

The schedule will be completed one week from today when games will be played as follows: Hillsville at Wampum, South Hills at South Side Merchants (Cedar street) and Capitolas at Bessemer.

Next Thursday the league officials and managers will meet at 7:30 p. m. at the Sporting Goods Store, according to Secretary James Martin.

Baer And Louis Next Big Fight Says Mike Jacobs

Jacobs Sad As Gate Falls Short Of Million Dollars, May Take Bout To Coast

EXPECT TO SIGN UP BAER TODAY

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 24.—With Max Schmeling, victim of his most recent, and by far greatest performance, temporarily deposited in a cubicle at Polytechnic hospital, there to be wired together again and shipped back to Germany for ever more, heavyweight champion Joe Louis today announced that he wants to fight in September.

His opponent probably will be Max Baer, who seemingly won't be satisfied until he has been reduced to debris again as he was in 1935 when he met Louis and as Schmeling was on Wednesday night.

Louis wants any opponent they pick for him, he said. Baer most emphatically wants Louis, he explained at great length. Promoter Mike Jacobs will take any fight that will draw money and today indicated a return between Baer and Louis in preference to another Tommy Farr-Louis meeting, as has been rumored.

Gate Falls Short
But while Schmeling was tossing about on his bed at Polytechnic, where he will be confined for 10 days, with a transverse process, or part of his spine fractured by one of Louis' right hand punches, and while pugilistic channels were cluttered with conjecture over one thing and another, promoter Jacobs predicted that the million dollar gate is a thing of the past—for the present anyway.

After Baer belted Farr around last winter, the promoters engulfed his features in a grin and said that Baer and Louis would draw two million dollars. He changed his mind after he had counted Wednesday night's house.

It wasn't bad, considering that receipts went to beyond a million with radio and movie returns thrown in, and fell just short of a million strictly on ticket sales—but it still wasn't a million dollar gate. And it (Continued On Next Page)

Harvard-Yale Oarsmen Meet In Race Today

Race Today Is Steeped In Tradition, Harvard Is Slight Favorites

By LEWIS BURTON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24.—Teeming with tradition so thick it could be cut with a snowplow, Yale and Harvard oarsmen took over this old whaling port today to determine which varsity crew will complete its season undefeated.

Harvard is the favorite, at odds approximating 7 to 5, to win the 76th regatta between the blue and the crimson.

There is a remarkable physical similarity between the two varsities but a distinctive difference in their rowing styles. The Harvard boat is employing a leg-and-arm stroke, with the oarsmen straight up in their seats, comparable more to California than the Washington source from which Coach Tom Bolles springs. Ed Leader, the Yale coach, is one of the few who remains by his somewhat out-moded stroke with emphasized body-swing.

The Harvard eight averages 130 pounds and 6 feet 3 inches. Yale averages 178 and 6 feet 2 1/4.

Max Schmeling, awakening in Polytechnic hospital today, showed improvement and learned that motion pictures of the title fight in which he suffered a vertebra injury revealed that Joe Louis threw no illegal punches.

Cincinnati Is 'Baseball Mad' Team Winning

Experts Already Look To Reds For Pennant In National League, Have Power

YANKEES FINALLY TOP INDIANS 8-6

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK, June 24—As the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants start another hand-to-hand battle here today, the Cincinnati Reds, dark horse entry in the National League race, moved on to Philadelphia for a soft touch series with the Phillies.

Baseball observers, who regard the Reds highly as real pennant contenders, point to the power packed by Bill McKechnie's team in addition to the top rank pitching of Johnny Vander Meer, Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters, Peaches Davis and Les Grayson.

Heavy Hitters
Right through the lineup—Fry, Cooke, Goodman, McCormick, Lombardi and Craig—each batter possesses the ability to break up a tight ball game by one long smash. And that quality is a vital factor in determining flag winners.

Although driven from the mound yesterday, Vander Meer won his ninth game and tied Goodman his 19th homer as the Reds made it two out of three over the Giants, 8 to 5. Mel Ott hit his 17th homer and Sam Leslie scored for the circuit, as Hal Schumacher was tagged with his fifth loss.

With the Cubs in Philadelphia on account of rain, the Reds took over second place, a game and a half back of New York.

Prates Go Out
Rube Phillips drove in six runs with a homer, double and single as the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 1 and snapped a three-game losing streak.

In Boston, Mickey Owen's single scored Joe Medwick with the winning run as the St. Louis Cardinals won 2 to 1, from the Boston Bees. A moment before, Rookie Dick Erickson walked Pepper Martin and Johnny Mize to force in the tying tally.

The New York Yankees climbed into second place three and a half games behind Cleveland by salvaging the series final with the Indians, 8 to 6. Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey homered and Johnny Murphy quelled a five-run, ninth inning Cleveland rally.

Tigers Beat Sox
Aided by Rudy York's 20th homer, Hank Greenberg's 18th and one by Chick Laine, the Detroit Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 10 to 2. York is tied with Jimmy Fox for the major league home run lead.

Dutch Leonard, eight-hit pitcher and Buddy Myers' homer amid Washington's 16-hit attack gave the Senators a 12 to 6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

In St. Louis, Lynn Nelson held the Browns to four hits as the Philadelphia Athletics won out 7 to 1. Sam Chapman and Lou Finney hit homers for Philadelphia, while Mel Mazzera hit one for the Browns.

Havens rules the favorite, at odds approximately 7 to 5, to defeat him and the commission is expected to make public its findings next week.

SCHMELING SPENDS RESTFUL NIGHT IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL

he dropped to the resin for the third and last time.

It is the boxer's contention that his fighting mechanism was destroyed by the second punch of the fight—a right that landed over his left kidney. Such a blow is not disclosed in the slow motion recording.

Punches Destructive
But the camera shots do show that Louis landed no less than 21 punches—some short but all were more or less destructive—before he thudded his right twice against Schmeling's left side as the German twisted his body in an effort to prevent the Brown Bomber from continuing a stunning head attack.

The pictures indicate that two left hooks and a right to the head took all the fight out of Schmeling. Beginning with the left to the head with which Louis opened his assault, these were the 15th, 16th and 17th clean punches landed by the champion. Schmeling's head rocked with each blow.

Right Punch To Side
It was then that he was driven to the ropes and there Louis delivered four sickening blows to the head and one left that caught Max near the heart. Unable to get another good shot as Schmeling covered there, Louis hesitated and then drove a straight right to Schmeling's side. This was the blow that provoked a cry of pain from the challenger.

General John J. Phelan, chairman of the state athletic commission, has instructed that physicians investigate Schmeling's injuries. Prints of the X-rays will be delivered to him and the commission is expected to make public its findings next week.

want a million and a quarter dollar gate as Jacobs had predicted.

Baer Vs. Louis
He is ready to put on Baer and Louis for the title in the fall, he said, and Baer probably will be signed before he returns to California because they would draw more money than any other leather-punching leaders. And what will they draw? About $750,000, on the promoters' estimate.

If that is the best he figures he can do here, the bout may be delayed until next year and move to San Francisco to serve as one of the attractions during the World's Fair to be held there. Charlie Traub, multi-millionaire police commissioner of the west coast city, is behind a move to underwrite the spectacle for a million dollars. Promoter Jacobs revealed, Louis still would fight somebody here in September.

May Sign Baer
Newspapers along this line will be brought out into the open and under serious consideration today when Gene Tunney will confer with Jacobs in behalf of west coast interests. Baer, likewise, may be signed today.

The reformed playboy was to have gone through the formalities yesterday, but this temporarily was postponed by promoter Jacobs who wishes first to iron out several details, including the all-important one binding Baer for his first title defense in the event he wins the championship.

That may be an empty gesture. Up to now, Baer is the only one who thinks he has a chance against Louis.

Says High Taxes Drive Industry Out Of State

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Principally because of high taxes, Pennsylvania is losing her present industries more rapidly than she is attracting new ones, W. D. Miller, president of the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia, told a gathering of representatives of state business associations here today.

The net result has been a still further increase in relief rolls and unemployment and its attendant boost in taxes, he asserted.

Pointing out that 1,600,000 persons, almost one-fifth of the population, are on the relief rolls today, Miller urged the business men to unite in a battle for lower taxes and more efficient operation of the state government and to organize a campaign to advertise Pennsylvania's natural advantages as an industrial state.

Some 200 representatives of various business and farm organizations attended the meeting called here by Miller. A permanent organization was planned on a non-partisan, non-political basis.

Unemployment, the movement of industry in and out of the state and Pennsylvania state taxes on business are the three greatest problems facing businessmen in this state today, Miller said.

Eighteen-Year-Old Fingerprints Used To Identify Body

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—Eighteen-year-old fingerprints identified a St. Louis drowning victim recently.

The body of a man was found floating in the Mississippi river; he was about 70, and weighed about 150 pounds. Police, in the course of a routine checkup, went to the morgue and fingerprinted the dead man.

Checking their files, police announced the body was that of Charles Parker, 75, who once said he came from California. On September 20, 1920, Parker was questioned by police, fingerprinted and released the same day. His fingerprints were filed away for possible future reference and no occasion arose to use them until the body was found.

Native Violates Fiji Island Code And Kills Self

(International News Service)

SUVA, Fiji Island.—Suicide among native Fijians is rare, since self-destruction is against their religion, but a native arrested by a constable at Vesiia recently proved the exception to the rule.

Arrested on a minor charge, with his sister, the native apparently was so overcome by the disgrace that he chose suicide rather than face the ridicule of his fellows.

He escaped from the officer and disappeared in dense bush. Pursuing him, the officer came upon his dead body, dangling from a tree by a piece of bright red tapa cloth.

Graduates Ban Caps And Gowns As Too Mournful

(International News Service)

NEWBURYPORT, Mass.—High school seniors here voted 115 to 51 against wearing caps and gowns at the June commencement because such attire would convey a "mournful appearance."

Caps and gowns were worn here for the first time in 1937 and incurred disfavor of this year's class, largest in the school's history. Consequently, girls were permitted to wear any color they wished, and the boys' suits and footwear of their own liking.

'Pudgy' Collapses, Heat Claims Life

One of Thursday's outstanding pet parade attractions—"Pudgy," the chunky two-year-old English bull dog owned by John J. Maher, 615 West Washington street—died of heat prostration a few hours after she had strutted along the downtown streets with scores of other pets.

Dr. T. F. Nugent, veterinary, said the strain of the march was just too much for her. "Pudgy" died at 7 last night.

Dr. Nugent administered "minor aid" to other dogs following the march, he said today. They were not serious cases.

The pet dog of Marjory Baumgartner, Falls street, according to reports, broke a leg just a short time before the parade hour.

Says Junior Garden Club Interested

J. W. Anderson, who appeared before council yesterday to request permission to beautify Gunton Park, on the North Hill, spoke in behalf of the newly formed Junior Garden club, and was not representing the Men's Garden club, as was erroneously reported last evening.

Queen Elizabeth Prefers White For Summertime

Queen Elizabeth of England has ordered a number of new "picnic" dresses for her summer wardrobe from Lanvin of Paris. Mme. Jeanne Lanvin, the famous couturiere who originated the bouffant-skirted robe style, is reputed to adore designing for the petrie, pink and white beauty of England's queen.

At the beginning of each season, Lanvin's premiere vendeuse journeys to London with the highfashion of the new collection, and her mannequins present a private fashion show at Buckingham palace or Windsor. From this group the queen chooses a number of models.

Although information as to her choice is zealously guarded both in Paris and London, were leaked out this season that Her Majesty is particularly partial to white with black touches. Long a favorite of the House of Lanvin, several garden dresses of opandy are also said to be among the new purchases.

You needn't fear the growing power of any group. When it gets too strong, it gets arrogant and bossy, and then people trim it down.
